Poles at Red Trial Admit Plot Charge

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, June 18 (AP)—The secretary of the military collegium of the supreme court told the judges today Maj. Gen. Bronislaw Okulicki and others of the 16 Polish leaders had confessed to a long list of charges including killing 594 Russian officers, anti-Soviet esponiage and conferring with the Germans. The graying Okulicki, who headed the Polish home army of the London Polish government after the surrender of Gen. Tadeusz (Bor) Komorowski, and his fellow defendants heard the charges without emotion. One of the 16 accused Poles was ill and did not attend.

Twelve of the defendants confessed. These included the four leaders, Gen. Okulicki; Jan Jankowski, vice premier; Adam Bien, former Warsaw judge; and Stanislaw Jasiukowicz, former member of parliament. Three others confessed to portions of the charges. The youngest member of the accused, Z. Stypulowski, a Warsaw lawyer, did not plead guilty.

ill and did not attend.

The trials were held in the same blue-walled hall of the labor building where the Trotskyist purge trials were held in 1937. The same Judge Vasily V. Ulrich, presided.

Okulicki was accused by the Red Army of possessing at the time of his arrest a document in which he declared that in the event of a Soviet victory over Germany, England would have to form a western European bloc to combat the Russians. The document was said to assert that Germany and Poland should be in the bloc.

(The Moscow radio heard in London said the Poles had admitted the Polish home army commanded by Okulicki had been kept intact for eventual "armed struggles" against the Warsaw provisional government and the Red Army. The Moscow broadcast said Okulicki testified he had received orders from the exiled Polish government in London "to preserve the home army in a condition of illegality.")

Indications were the Red Army prosecutor would ask the death penalty at least in some cases.

The secretary of the court said Okulicki had confessed to sending the message about the European bloc over one of the many radio stations the Red Army took from the 16 Poles on trial. He quoted the message as saying:

"In case of victory of the U. S. S. R. over Germany, not only England's interests but all of Europe's will be threatened."

The court took under advisement a request from the general that a list of witnesses be called, including an unspecified officer of the British military mission in Moscow.

The Poles sat immobile through the lengthy reading of the charges, which included allegations of conspiracies engaged in by the general staff of the Polish London government against the Russian Army.

Each of the Polish defendants marched into the chamber accompanied by a Red Army guard.

Okulicki, principal defendant, wore a dark blue suit. He looked sternly ahead as he led the march to the bar. All his colleagues wore civilian dress. Most looked old or middle aged, although one appeared to be only 20 or 30.

Okulicki announced he would defend himself. Seven Soviet lawyers were seated before the Polish box, available for use if asked.

The charges alleged President Sosnokowski of Poland's London regime and Okulicki agreed weapons, print shops, radio stations and ammunition should be preserved for resisting the Red Army. The charge said the group of accused Poles carried on consistent anti-Soviet and anti-Red Army activities.

Jasiukowicz was the first Pole to testify. He pleaded guilty to sending misleading information to the British government and in taking part in an underground ministry in Moscow. He denied any complicity in the killings of Russian officers and men.

He testified that his information to the British government of the strength of the leadership of the Polish emigre government "was given tendenciously."

Poles in London Claim Reds Use Ringer in Trial

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—A spokesman for the exiled Polish government in London charged today the Russians had introduced a "ringer" among the 16 Poles on trial in Moscow for sabotage and attributed many of the damaging admissions to him.

"For a long time, we have wondered who the 16th prisoner was," the spokesman said. "Now we learn he is M. Jansen, a name entirely unknown to us. It is significent how much of the talking he has done.

"Reports from the trial said Jansen commanded the whole underground army around Lwow. We would like to make the point that Gen. Filipkowski commanded in this district and that when the Russians took Lwow, he was arrested on the spot and his name and rank were made public at that time."

The spokesman said most careful studies in exile circles had failed to disclose Jansen's identity.

An atmosphere of frustration and despair seemed to permeate Polish circles here as the first accounts of the Moscow trial came in.

The London government has not yet denied the Moscow radio report that Okulicki testified he received orders from the London group "to preserve the home army in a condition of illegality." Questioned about this point, the spokesman said:

"I think they are putting words into his mouth. But what can we do? This is a trial in the classic Moscow fashion."

Hess to Face Trial With Goering, Ribbentrop

LONDON, June 18 (INS)—Former deputy fuehrer Rudolf Hess, who parachuted to Scottish soil in 1941, will be taken to Germany shortly to stand trial with other Nazi war criminals.

One of the first decisions at the coming Big Three meeting in Berlin will concern the time and place for the trials of Hess, Goering, Von Ribbentrop and others.

It was indicated the trials may be held in the Berlin suburb of Potsdam.

Jap Surrender Move Spreads

Associated Press

Surrender of amazingly large numbers of Japanese fighting men on Okinawa island and in the northeast Philippines highlighted developments in western Pacific battle areas today.

But while hundreds of Nipponese lost the will to fight and quit cold, some 10,000 others were fighting to the death in hopeless trap on southern Okinawa.

The surrenders in the Cagayan valley of the Philippines were termed by one American commander "the greatest haul" taken in the southwest Pacific. Prisoners included many Formosan soldiers, impressed by the Japs early in the war.

On the Jap home front four secondary industrial cities smouldered under the impact of an estimated 3000 tons of fire bombs spilled by 450 night flying Superfortresses. One B-29 was lost in the four-way blow against vital war industries.

The Japs on Okinawa and in the Philippines began to quit in droves as their total dead in the two sectors mounted to near 3000 a day. On southern Okinawa, where doughboys and marines have split Jap remnants into two segments with their backs to the sea, the Japs have been dying at a rate of 1600 daily.

Allied commands ignored Jap reports of a pre-invasion naval bombardment of the Balikpapan oil refinery area of Borneo.

Substantial gains were reported on northwest Borneo and southwest China.

Small but significant gains were scored by four U. S. divisions on Okinawa through concentrated Jap machinegun fire as Yanks cut off one segment of the Nipponese suicide force and established firm control over four heights dominating "Hara Kiri Plateau."

Both Allied and Jap spokesmen predicted the war would be speeded up. Tokyo foresaw an imminent assault on Japan or the China coast, stemming from Okinawa.

Whenever or wherever it comes it will be backed by firepower "such as the world never before has known" said R. Adm. George F. Hussey, Jr., Navy ordnance chief. It involves $240,000,000 monthly production of explosives. About a third going for rockets.

Acting Prime Minister J. B. Chifley of Australia said action was moving so rapidly the war might be over in less than a year and a half, but Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell cautioned the Japs would fight fiercely for what remains of their empire.

Approximately 450 Superforts burned substantial holes in four small parts of that empire when they hit this morning at chemical, aircraft, railway, steel and oil plants in Kagoshima and Omuta on Kyushu island, and Hamamatsu and Yokkaichi on Honshu.

Returning airmen said attacks on all four industrial towns were highly successful.

Old Bow St. Court Holds Haw Haw for Treason Trial

By THOMAS WATSON

LONDON, June 18 (INS)—The once arrogant Lord Haw Haw of Berlin radio notoriety made a miserable looking figure today as he appeared in Bow Street Court to hear himself charged with high treason.

Haw Haw (William Joyce) stood with hands behind his back, staring straight at the chief metropolitan magistrate, Sir Bertrand Watson.

His head was shaven in Prussian military style and his ashen-gray face was drawn. His skin looked unhealthy and pimply. He wore a shabby dark blue suit and a badly fitting khaki cotton shirt, a dark tie and brown shoes from which the laces had been taken.

Lord Haw Haw

Joyce was remanded to police custody until June 25 after the charge against him was read. The charge said:

"That you did commit high treason in that, between Sept. 2, 1939, and May 25, 1945, being a person owing allegiance to His Majesty, you adhered to the king's enemies elsewhere than in the king's realm, to wit the German realm, contrary to the treason act of 1351."

Joyce uttered only a few sentences during the brief court appearance. His voice had the familiar ring it had over the Berlin transmitter.

The small oak-panelled court was packed almost to the point of suffocation.

Joyce was slipped through the side door to the prisoner's railed dock.

Capital Gives Wild Acclaim To Gen. Ike

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, returning triumphantly to his homeland from victory in Europe, declared today his soldiers "passionately" believe "the problems of peace can and must be met."

Climaxing a spectacular homecoming that saw him ride over the Capital's historic triumphal parade route — Pennsylvania ave. — past wildly cheering men and women, Gen. Eisenhower told a joint session of Congress and the Supreme Court:

"The genius and power of America have, with her Allies eliminated one menace to our country's freedom—even her very existence. Still another remains to be crushed in the Pacific before peace will be restored."

Saying he spoke for the American men and women he commanded, the Allied Supreme Commander declared:

"Though we dream of return to our loved ones, we are ready, as we always have been, to do our duty to our country, no matter what it may be."

Earlier in his prepared speech, the general asserted the "problems of peace can be no more difficult than the one you had to solve more than three years ago . . . with the same determination, the same optimistic resolution and the same mutual consideration among allies, the problems of peace can and must be met."

Hundreds of thousands of wildly shouting men, women and children, veterans of this war and of the last, wounded veterans, the old and the young, raised their voices in one of the greatest ovations the nation's capital ever rendered.

It started when the general left his plane at National Airport and continued through lines often 10 deep to the Pentagon Building, into the city past the Lincoln Memorial, down broad Constitution ave. to historic Pennsylvania ave. and thence to Capitol Hill.

In the capitol the smiling Eisenhower strode down the center aisle as the House chamber reverberated with cheers.

Members of Congress and packed galleries applauded, whistled and cheered for two full minutes as the tall, sun-burned Kansan took up a position behind a battery of 12 microphones. He nodded and grinned while the stirring welcome rolled in waves through the packed room.

The general was presented by Speaker Rayburn, and another ovation followed.

At one side sat Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Adm. William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the commander-in-chief; Adm. of the Fleet Ernest J. King, Gen. Ira Eaker, deputy chief of staff for the air forces.

President Truman's own sleek C-54, one of four big transports bringing the general and his party home from the wars, landed at 11:11 a. m.

Gen. Marshall and Eisenhower's petite and vivacious wife rushed to meet him as the door of his plane opened.

Mrs. Eisenhower embraced and kissed him as he stepped out of the plane.

Eisenhower then snapped to a

High Court OK For CIO Bridges

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The Supreme Court today ruled invalid a deportation order against Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader.

Justice Douglas delivered the court's 5-3 opinion. Justice Jackson took no part in the case. Chief Justice Stone wrote a dissent in which Justices Frankfurter and Roberts concurred.

Harry Bridges

The court's decision climaxed a seven-year fight over government efforts to send the alien Bridges back to Australia—whence he came a quarter-century ago.

Atty.-Gen. Biddle ordered Bridges deported on the ground the Longshoremen's Union executive had been a member of the Communist party. Biddle at that time said the party advocated violent overthrow of the United States government.

Noyes Told: Fair June 26 or Else

His own office staff really put G. Harold Noyes, weather bureau meteorologist, on the spot today.

He's got to come up with some grand weather on Tuesday June 26, or else the gals and guys he has worked with for 13 years are going to unlike him very much.

That's the date set for a testimonial dinner in Hotel Sheraton to the veteran of 47 years service who retires June 30. The staff, which is throwing the party, told Noyes today they thought real highly of him but warned him not to dampen their spirits with rain on June 26.

Faced with that ultimatum, the best Noyes could dish up for greater Boston tonight was more thunder showers, ending by morning. He predicted this Tuesday will be partly cloudy and less humid, which is about par for the course.

The victim landed on a concrete alleyway. Miss Roberts, a clerk in the building, had been ill for some time and had come to the office today for a visit.

OPA—The Black Market—and YOU

Force Tie-In Sales On Meat Retailers

By WARREN STEVENS

Unfair and contradictory bureaucratic regulations are breaking down the business of supplying food to more than a million Boston consumers. Designed to assure fair distribution of available food supplies, their net result, instead, has been to invite violations and force legitimate and established supply houses to face ruin or turn to black market channels.

Despite their denials and protestations of innocence, packers are forcing retailers to take quantities of useless and often unsalable products along with the supplies of meat they need for their customers.

"Tie-in" sales are forbidden by government order but the blackjacking goes on every day and the city is flooded with these products.

Unfair price ceiling regulations keep established products in warehouses because the dealers refuse to take a terrific loss by putting them on sale.

Instead, inferior substitute products have replaced them on the market and these sell at a HIGHER ceiling price than the real thing.

Other bureaucratic regulations have restricted the sale of products, such as canned milk and peanut butter, to restaurants.

But the restaurants get their canned milk and peanut butter just the same and they do it perfectly legally.

They go to the retailer and make their purchases from him to make up the amount cut from their former supply by the bureaucratic restriction.

This not only cuts into the supply ordinarily available for the regular patrons of the retail stores but it uses the time and gasoline of the restaurant owners, things the bureaucrats say should be conserved.

Firms which have been in business for more than five years have found themselves gradually losing business and facing the prospect of closing down, if they want to operate legally.

But new firms and food manufacturers, who have been in business for only a short time, are reaping a harvest with the aid of rules and regulations which allow him to sell at higher ceilings and cut the throat of the established business man.

Pepper is an example.

The pepper on your table is probably an imitation of the real thing, yet there are more than two million pounds of genuine pepper stored in a warehouse by a Boston concern because of contradictory and unfair price ceilings.

The ceiling price on genuine pepper has been set at 25 cents a pound retail, while wholesalers pay about 14 cents a pound for it.

But the retail price ceiling on imitation pepper is 32 cents a pound and 25 cents a pound for the wholesaler.

Selling the genuine article at the ceiling price would not pay spice dealers for the cost of storage, labor, upkeep or distribution, so they hold onto their product and the market is flooded with the imitation variety.

One of the nation's biggest companies is limited in its output because it can't produce its chocolate syrup at the present ceiling price without losing considerable money.

But an Ohio dealer with a similar but inferior product has been granted a higher ceiling and higher selling price and is flooding the market with it.

Thus, stupid bureaucratic regulations are ruining established businesses and producing a golden flood of profits for the Johnny-come-latelies.

The new man in business has no former price scale to abide by as do the established concerns.

All he needs is OPA permission and a set of rules under which he may operate.

Mayonnaise is an illustration.

The old established manufacturer sells his product at an average rate of $1.45 per gallon to wholesalers. But these same wholesalers must pay from $1.60 to $1.75 per gallon for mayonnaise they purchase from new operators.

Salad oil is one of the principal ingredients of mayonnaise and and most of this has been diverted into the black market, with a 25 cents per gallon charge in

2-Million-Ton K. O. Due Japan

By LEE VAN ATTA

WITH FAR EAST AIR FORCES, Philippines, June 18 (INS)—Gen. H. H. "Hap" Arnold revealed today Allied plans call for the "total destruction" of Japan by the end of 1946.

The veteran United States air chief, who came to the Philippines Saturday after visiting Guam, reiterated a previous assertion more than 2,000,000 tons of bombs would be expended in the projected annihilation of the Jap homeland.

That bomb tonnage, he pointed out, "is more than three times what we dropped on Germany—and Japan is only 10 per cent as large as Germany."

Clare Condemns Swing Of 'Liberals' to Russia

By CLARE BOOTHE LUCE
Republican Representative from Connecticut

"When does might make right, and when does might make wrong?" "When is a principle not a principle?" "When is appeasement not appeasement?" These are questions which increasingly Americans have begun to ask since V-E Day.

They have begun to ask them of their favorite "liberals" and more crusaders—the men who, between Munich and Stalingrad challenged the conscience of the world to rise against Nazism—largely on the grounds of moral principle.

Between 1938 and 1942 these American liberals, moralists, crusaders, these men of principle, riveted the eyes of all their fellow citizens upon the tragedy being enacted in Hitler's Europe, and in passionate and eloquent voices trembling with a sense of outraged decency and justice, delineated and defined the international world of good and evil, the deeds of a nation that were right and those that were wrong.

They laid down a list of principles in international conduct, of a nation's conduct to its own citizens, and to the nationals of neighboring countries which they declared to be immutable in the eyes of decent men, of free men, and/or of men who believed in God.

What were those principles with which they sought to stab—and did stab the conscience of so many Americans in the years just past?

The first was that military or political aggression by a great or major power on a smaller and weaker power was immoral, and therefore dangerous to the climate of freedom, and to the peace of the world.

We can still hear their voices ringing in thunderous denunciation of Japan when she entered Manchuria, or Italy when she entered Ethiopia, or Germany when she entered Austria and Czechoslovakia, of Russia when she entered Finland, and of both Germany and Russia when they jointly occupied Poland.

Every one of these acts was bitterly and properly denounced by American liberals as immoral, and the men who accepted them were scorned and upbraided before all right-minded and God-fearing men as "appeasers."

"Might," they said, "will never make right." This is a moral principle, eternal, immutable — AND SOUND.

Do you remember the eloquent scorn which was heaped on any American who claimed, at the time of Munich, that there was still room in the world for the United States to live side by side with a strong totalitarian power, whose ideology differed from ours, but who, it was plain, did not really want to tangle with the U. S. A. either militarily or economically?

Do you remember the speeches from pulpit and rostrum, from cabinet members' offices, from the halls of the Capitol itself, that incited Americans who loved "individual freedom" to view with intense alarm and repugnance the "universal threat to individual freedom" embodied in the very principle of dictatorship itself?

Do you remember President F. D. Roosevelt's statement that "RUSSIA IS A DICTATORSHIP AS ABSOLUTE AS ANY ON EARTH?"

Do you remember how they told us that should Europe ever be dominated by one strong totalitarian power, that that very day individual freedom for masses of Europeans would be gone forever, and that the dark ages would descend on all the world?

Yes, the arguments of the liberals—from the days of Munich until America's entry into the war—an entry that was secured largely because of these very arguments—were sound and noble, worthy of the ears of all free and open-minded men.

So, all that they said was true yesterday. And if all that they said yesterday was true yesterday, is it not true today? Oh, yes, it is still true.

REP. CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

Many of them—alas, most of them, are not saying it today.

Let us take two great liberals, for example: Mr. Henry Wallace and Mr. Archibald MacLeish, two well-established champions of individual human freedom, and therefore two men who one supposes would never change their fundamental principles to suit opportunistic or expedient international circumstances. Their principles (circa 1939-1943) were:

1—Aggression is wrong.

2—Appeasement is immoral.

3—The cause of individual freedom must forever be in conflict with tyranny.

4—This must be one world: either a world of freedom for individuals, or a world of increasing tyranny.

Where do Mr. MacLeish and Mr. Wallace stand on these fundamental principles of decent international conduct and morality today?

The answer is so disquieting—no, so shocking—that an ordinary citizen with a modicum of intellectual integrity, who has managed in these past years of blood and toil and tears and sweat to get his own principles straight—can hardly believe he is listening when they use their familiar phrases to support exactly contrary ideas.

But where does Henry Wallace stand today on the question of individual human liberty for the common man—everywhere in the world? Unhappily for his admirers among the true liberals — HE DOES NOT STAND.

Do we hear Henry Wallace's voice raised against the aggressions of Soviet Russia in Latvia, Esthonia, Lithuania, Poland? Do we hear him condemn the totalitarian policy of establishing "friendly governments" in the Balkans by mass deportations, concentration camps and firing squads?

No, we hear nothing but silence from Mr. Wallace on the score of the freedom of the little nations of Europe and the individual freedom of their citizens. Silence, that is all, on these basic moral questions which Mr. Wallace once claimed were the "great issues facing all free men."

[And what of Archibald MacLeish? Read what Clare Luce says about him in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.]

AP Loses, 5 to 3 In High Court

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—The Supreme Court, today, affirmed a lower court finding that Associated Press membership bylaws violate the Sherman anti-trust act.

Justice Black delivered the high court's 5-3 opinion. Justice Jackson, a former attorney general, took no part in the case.

Justice Roberts delivered a strong dissent, in which Chief Justice Stone joined. Justice Murphy also dissented.

Justices Frankfurter and Douglas wrote brief opinions concurring with the majority.

The 6500-word prevailing opinion declared the lower court correctly found Associated Press bylaws, which allow consideration of the competitive effect of an application for membership, on their face . . . constitute restraint of trade."

Justice Roberts asserted he was unable to determine upon what ground the majority based its conclusions. Further, Roberts stated, the decree may well be "a first step in the shackling of the press."

Rhode Island First To Pass Bond Quota

NEWPORT, R. I., June 18 (AP)—"Little Rhody" has gone and done it again. State chairman Broderick P. Tiernie of the war finance board reported today that, for the third time, the smallest State in the nation had become the first to exceed its war loan quota.

In "the mighty seventh," he added, Rhode Island had amassed $80,600,750, or 102 per cent of its $79,000,000 quota.

Lasky Will Be Here For Big Bataan Fete

Rapidly assuming shape as Boston's show of shows, the big benefit performance at the Boston Garden next Sunday night will include scores of top-ranking stars of stage, screen and radio.

Latest Hollywood luminary to join the growing list of film celebrities who will take part in the program, being arranged by the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser, is Jesse L. Lasky of RKO, pioneer screen producer and for 35 years a dominant figure in the show business.

Purpose of the gala entertainment is two-fold—to salute RKO's gripping epic of Filipino guerrillas, "Back to Bataan," and to raise funds for a much-needed downtown center for servicemen's wives and mothers.

Coming East from the film capital, also to make personal appearances at the big Garden entertainment, whose master of ceremonies will be the celebrated Eddie Cantor, are beautiful Ellen Drew, star of RKO's "China Sky"; John Wayne and Fely Franquelli, stars of "Back to Bataan," and Anthony Quinn and Ducky Louie, featured players in the Filipino story, which has its world premiere June 25 at Boston's Keith Memorial Theater.

Not only will Eddie Cantor m. c. the show, but he will bring his entire radio troupe, including Fred Martel, vocalist; Leonard Sues, one of the nation's greatest trumpet players, and Nora Martin and Bea Walker, song stylists.

Then there will be the one and only Benny Goodman, long wearer of the crown as "King of Swing," who will contribute his entire company from the RKO-Boston Theater, where he will be currently starring.

Another notable will be Romo Vincent, Broadway's popular comedian and star of the new hit show, "Marinka," while the Yankee Network will send over Jean Merrill, Ted Cole and the Gallagher Sisters, all singing aces.

Hollywood's favorite funster, Johnny Howard, will come from the swank Club Mayfair, together with the glamorous Whitney Sisters dance team; the Crosby Sisters, comedians of song, and the alluring dancing Mayfairettes.

Another fast spot will be held by the lavish Latin Quarter floor show, which features the comical Chaz Chase, the voice of Paddy Cliff, and the dancing of the Don Arden girls. From the new Bradford Roof an excellent contribution to the long Garden bill will be Jackie Miles, Broadway favorite and the season's sensation for gags and laughs.

Under personal direction of the maestro himself Tony Bruno's famous Latin Quarter Band will lend musical background to the big show, staged with the co-operation of the Boston Garden management and these generous entertainers.

Guests will include Gov. Tobin, Mayor Kerrigan, Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident Philippines commissioner to the U. S. and member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff; 500 wearers of the Purple Heart, as special guests of Eddie Cantor and officers and men from the New England area who were released by Yankee Rangers and Filipino guerrillas from the infamous Jap prison camp at Cabanatuan.

Tickets for next Sunday night's big show, scheduled to start promptly at 8:15, are on sale daily at Boston Garden from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. at popular prices, $1.20, $2.40 and $3.60. But remember—at the Bob Hope show those who didn't hurry right down for their tickets found themselves out in the cold, because all had been snapped up.

Thousands Line Parade Route

Thousands thronged Charlestown today for the great civic and military parade which climaxed a week-end of festivities in observance of the 170th anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

Although the actual anniversary of the battle was yesterday, most of the traditional ceremonies were put over until today while the Sunday observance was highlighted by a "night before" address by former Postmaster General James A. Farley, who expressed hope for an era of peace based on confidence between nations.

At the official civic luncheon at Charlestown's Stork Club, Mayor Kerrigan announced plans to name a Boston square in honor of Gen. Eisenhower and expressed the hope the Supreme Allied Commander would be able to accept an invitation to visit Boston. In the event he did, Kerrigan said, the square would be dedicated officially on the day of his visit.

The day's program opened with ice cream distribution and the traditional doll carriage parade in Monument sq., with Shelagh Mary Doherty, 2½, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doherty of Monument ave. walking away with the $25 war bond first prize in a field of 70 contestants.

Second prize was shared by two sisters, Joanne Vanderpot, 5, and Peggy, 2½, of Bunker Hill st., while third honors went to Reed Janet Locke, 10, of Monument sq., who had taken first prize in the three preceding years. Military and War Loan decorations were used by most contestants.

A huge Seventh War Loan drive rally followed the opening festivity with captured German tanks, guns and equipment on display along with weapons of American military might.

The parade, due to start at 2:15 p. m., was delayed almost 15 minutes before the marchers swung out along the route, passing between throngs which had gathered long before the procession started.

Attractive WAVES and SPARs got big hands from the crowd, which also gave an ovation to a detail of tanned marines, all of them bearing many campaign ribbons and decorations on their tunics.

The route was Bunker Hill st., Sullivan sq., Main, Sever, Kingston and Cambridge sts., Rutherford ave., Mishawum, Main, Union, Washington and Harvard sts., City sq., Chelsea, Bunker Hill, Moulton, Vine and Decatur sts., Walford way, Tufts, Bunker Hill, Trenton, Bartlett, Elm and High sts., Monument sq., East Tremont, Prospect, Chelsea, Adams and Winthrop sts., to the disbanding point in Common st.

Fred von Hartenstein of the Col. Fred B. Bogan Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, was chief marshal of the parade.

Gov. Tobin, Mayor Kerrigan and City Councilor Michael Leo Kinsella, with other distinguished guests, reviewed the parade from a stand near K. of C. headquarters in High st. The chief marshal reviewed the marchers from a stand in Adams st.

Before a throng that overflowed Charlestown State Armory at the "night before" banquet, Farley called on the American people to view the difficult problems ahead with "maturity and a will to peace."

"American soldiers, sailors and aviators are showing the world that they are dedicated to the same high principles of freedom and democracy for which their forbears fought at Bunker Hill," Farley declared.

Brief Fish Strike In New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, June 18 (AP)—When nobody bought the 13,000-pound catch of a fishing boat manned by members of the AFL Chauffeurs and Teamsters Union today, the union tied up the waterfront with a strike for two hours until a fish company bought the cargo.

The port agent of the Atlantic Fishermen's Union, also AFL, arranged for the auctioning of craft manned by members of his union, in accordance with his custom. The port was swamped with 600,000 pounds of fish brought in Sunday and today. When the wholesale fish buyers failed to purchase the scup catch of the fishing boat Noah A. Secretary S. P. Jason of the Chauffeurs and Teamsters Union, which man several of the smaller craft, called a strike that affected approximately 800 workers.

Jungle-Knot Killers Flee in Victim's Garb

The killers of Patrick Murphy, 45, who was found bludgeoned to death in his River st., Cambridge, basement apartment Sunday night, discarded their blood-stained clothing, bathed and escaped in Murphy's clothing, police disclosed today.

Investigators found two pairs of Navy-type dungarees, two Army shirts and a suit, all stained with blood. The suit had been thrown atop a garbage can in the hallway. The other apparel was left in the apartment.

Murphy's bathtub was full of water and towels were strewn on the floor. Virtually all of Murphy's clothing was missing.

The killers demonstrated they were familiar with at least one form of torture. Murphy's body was bent abckt over a post of his bed, his hands tied behind the post, a noose of electric light wire around his neck. The noose was connected with the cord around his hands in such a manner that the slightest movement would tighten the noose. Police called it a "jungle knot."

The back of his head had been crushed. Near-by, on the floor, was a lead statue which may have been the murder weapon.

Inasmuch as Murphy's killers could have ended his life without subjecting him to the barbaric jungle knot, police theorized the slayers may have tortured him in hope of forcing him to reveal where he kept his money, then killed him in rage when the torture proved futile.

Murphy's sister, Mrs. Helen Sparrow of Hampshire st., Cambridge, told police she doubted if her brother had any considerable amount of money, although she had thought he owned several war bonds. No bonds were found in the ransacked apartment. She said he made an average of $60 a week at the Ashton Valve Co., East Cambridge.

Mrs. Sparrow was taken to the death apartment by police this afternoon. She helped them to ascertain most of Murphy's clothing had been stolen.

Hundreds of persons may be questioned in connection with the murder, for police found nearly 1000 names and addresses in Murphy's ransacked apartment. He had not kept a diary, so far as is known, but he had the habit of keeping the names of friends and acquaintances on slips of paper. Police also found many letters which are being examined.

An autopsy was performed by Acting Medical Examiner Andrew Guthrie

PARIS CELEBRATES

PARIS, June 18 (AP)—Picked French troops paraded on the Champs Elysees and marched under the Arc de Triomphe as 4,000,000 Parisians celebrated today the fifth anniversary of the birth of the resistance movement salute as an 86-piece Army band struck up.

He wore a light summer uniform. On his breast were numerous ribbons.

With the general were 53 fellow-soldiers—from a private first-class to generals—who fought with him.

Among them was his son, 1st Lt. John Sheldon Eisenhower.

As the general embraced his wife he said: "It's been a long time, darling."

As Marshall walked up, he clasped Eisenhower's hand and said "General, I'm glad to see you."

Gen. Marshall also greeted all the warriors with Eisenhower. Then the victory parade began.

As the general motored into the Pentagon's inner court, he stood up in the combat car to wave smiling acknowledgement to the cheers of 32,000 War Department workers gathered there with Secretary Stimson and other high department officials.

When his car slowed to a stop in the front of Stimson, Eisenhower saluted, then stepped down to shake hands with the Secretary.

Present with all of the high ranking officers to greet the general was Pvt. Patrick Carioggia, 22-year-old Syracuse, N. Y., soldier wounded five times in the European fighting. Carioggia went up to Eisenhower's car after the ceremony to shake hands with the general.

"Do you remember the old times when we were fighting in Germany?" said Carioggia.

"Yes," replied Eisenhower, "I remember. cYu sketched my picture while you were on the stretcher."

Shortly before the general and hisparty flew in, the White House announced another honor for the Allied supreme commander—a second Oak Leaf Cluster to his Distinguished Service eMdal to be presented personally by President Truman later today.

A White House dinner this evening for 10 guests was also on the crowded schedule.

Gen. Eisenhower made these other points in his address:

The late President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were "two God-given men" to whom thew orld woes lasting obligation. In Churchill, Roosevelt "had a worthy partner, who had led his country through its blackest hour in 1940."

British and Americans "forgot differences in customs and methods—even national prejudice—in their devotion to a common cause."

The campaigns of the Red Army, crushing all resistance in the East, played a decisive part in the defeat of Germany.

The banners of victory cannot hide from sight these sacrifices in which victory has been bought.

"The hard task of a commander is to send men into battle knowing some of them—often many—must be killed or wounded in order that necessary missions may be achieved. It is soul killing," he said.

"My sorrow is not only for the fine young lives lost or broken, but it is equally for the parents, the wives and the friends who have been bereaved. The price they pay is possibly the greatest for the victory won. The blackest of their grief can be relieved only by the faith that all this shall not happen again!"

Defeat for Reds Seen On Last Parley Issue

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18 (AP)—Only one issue stands between the United Nations Conference and adjournment, but that one, raised by Russia, may be enough to block the scheduled windup next Saturday.

Russia is demanding restriction of powers already formally proposed for the general assembly of the proposed world organization to discuss and make recommendations on any matter affecting international relations. Moscow wants this changed to cover only questions "relating to the maintenance of international peace and security."

Reopening this controversy has stirred anew small nation resistance to big power leadership in the writing of a united nations security charter.

Secretary of State Stettinius put himself, Evatt and Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko on a special committee yesterday to work out a compromise on the Russian demand. Today he informed the conference executive committee it had failed to do so. Gromyko, under instructions from Moscow, was unable to accept any compromise and could only report back to Moscow what was offered.

Truck Strikers Return to Jobs

CHICAGO, June 18 (AP)—Chicago trucking operations, partially crippled by a work stoppage which began Friday, slowly began resumption today with soldiers accompanying some drivers on their early runs.

The soldiers were called in by the Office of Defense Transportation to prevent the work stoppage—the second in less than a month—that has stemmed the flow of food and vital war goods in the midwest.

Girls in Majority

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The postwar population of the United States will be increasingly more female than male.

The reasons are (1) higher peacetime death rates among males of all ages and (2) the war's toll of the country's young manhood.

"Can Rover have some Hood's, too?"

It's natural to want to share the good things of life with your friends. Like Hood's Milk for instance! Friend tells friend that Hood's is superior milk—handled with every modern scientific precaution to insure its perfect purity and freshness. Generations of New Englanders have chosen Hood's as their favorite—the milk that's rich, creamy, and delicious!

CREAM OF QUAHOG SOUP

20 hard-shelled clams	2 cups milk	1 tbl. shortening
1 small onion	1 pinch sugar	1 tbl. flour
¼ cup clam juice	Salt and pepper	Minced parsley

Open and chop clams fine with very sharp knife. Put in double boiler with minced onion and clam juice. Cook a few minutes over direct heat. Add milk and sugar, salt and pepper, and return to low heat in double boiler. Thicken with shortening and flour blended, and cook 3 to 4 minutes. Strain. When hot, serve with small rounds of toast and minced parsley in each cup.

contrast with a 17 cent ceiling price on salad oil obtained through legitimate sources.

Established manufacturers, even if they wanted to, couldn't pay the black market rate but Johnny-come-lately, with his higher ceiling price for his product, can and often does.

One of the largest mayonnaise manufacturers in Boston once turned out 4000 gallons of the product daily.

Today he has been waiting for a shipment of salad oil for five weeks and expects he will be forced to close down his plant before he gets it. He can't put out a half-pint of mayonnaise without it.

There is no salad oil in Boston, but New York is flooded with it—through black market channels. This producer refuses to patronize black markets.

But still the OPA insists that its ceiling price is fair for one and all.

But the worst racket of all is the tie-in sales which retailers are forced to agree to in order to get scant supplies of meat.

All of them are agreed that it is nothing but a racket by which the packer disposes of often unsalable by-products, but no one dares to protest openly for fear of being cut off from any supplies of meat.

One packer forces his customers to buy a case of meat extract with every 100 pounds of meat. The grocer has no use for the extract but he buys it to assure himself of getting his meat supply.

But a Boston wholesaler has his warehouse crammed with cases of the extract, which he buys from retailers because he has found an outlet for it.

The packer sells the extract originally to the retailer at $2.50 for a case of a dozen bottles.

Glad to get it off his hands, the retailer in turn sells it to this particular wholesaler at $1 a case.

The wholesaler, who has found that ships can use the extract for stews and similar preparations for its crews, disposes of it at from $1.50 to $2 a case.

In other words, he is underselling the packer on the packer's own product and reaping himself a neat profit!

The only one who loses on the deal is the retailer, who knows that bureaucratic regulations are unfair to him and are being flaunted shamelessly.

But he doesn't dare to protest for fear that he won't get any meat at all.

Another packer forces his customers to buy another by-product, a dry dog food, in a direct tie-in sale with meat.

Retailers will buy up to 20 cases of the dog food in the morning and return to the packer in the afternoon to get supplies of meat.

Other retailers pay consumers privately to ride back and return the next day to pick up supplies of meat, for which he is given a slip showing that the ceiling price was paid for it. But there is nothing on the slip to show that the retailer slipped the packer $20, $30 or even $50 as a "bonus," the preceding day.

SWISS PLAN IS BEST

CONVINCING PROOF that the American people are not only thinking about the proposal for compulsory military training in the United States after the war but are thinking STRAIGHT about it is provided by the recent survey of public opinion on the subject by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Seventy per cent of those questioned expressed the conviction that "every able-bodied young man should be required to take military or naval training" in peacetime.

This represented a seven per cent increase over those having the same opinion in a similar poll conducted last September.

The real significance of the poll is found in the fact that in the course of the current hearings on the question before the Post-War Military Policy Committee of the House of Representatives the main opposition has been based on the assertion that public opinion does not support compulsory military training in peacetime.

The spokesmen representing the opposition have consistently maintained that while the War and Navy Departments and ranking military and naval authorities and the various veterans' organizations openly and strongly advocate such a policy, the general public does not.

This would be a serious obstruction to the program if true.

Obviously it is NOT true.

AMERICANS are PREPONDERANTLY in favor of permanent military training as an instrument of national defense and security, as the Gallup Poll has disclosed—not just on one occasion, but in FOUR consecutive surveys conducted within a year.

It is quite true, of course, that there is a wide range of opinion among the advocates of the program regarding the methods most adaptable and beneficial.

The range of this opinion is all the way from the full year of training favored by advocates at one extreme to the "stay-at-home, once-a-week" military instruction routine sponsored by those at the other extreme.

The middle ground in this discussion, as is so often the case in earnest debate raising sincere differences of opinion, is undoubtedly the best and SAFEST for decision.

That middle ground is suggested by the long and successful experience of Switzerland, which has found it possible and advisable and beneficial to make every able-bodied man competent for the defense of his country with a MINIMUM of separation from his home environment.

The Swiss system proves the wisdom and necessity of inducting the student into a regular military organization for a sufficient period to give him proficiency.

But it also proves that a full year of training is neither wise nor necessary, since attainment of proficiency is possible in a much shorter time—and thus separation from home and normal occupation for any longer period is unnecessary.

ACTUALLY, our own American experience in the present war has proved the SAME THING, with thousands of young Americans becoming proficient soldiers with much less than a year of training.

However, the debate over method must not divert Congress from the main issue—which is simply an issue of whether or not the American nation can afford to risk involvement in future wars without adequate defensive preparation, as it has so recklessly and expensively done in the last two great wars.

The American people almost unanimously WANT some form of permanent military preparation for youth, as the Gallup Poll shows.

The responsibility of Congress is to GIVE the American people what they want—and in the matter of postwar military training the successful and democratic Swiss system is unquestionably the nearest thing to what the people want and need.

AS FAR AS I know the above is the only one ever written sympathetically to reassure a woman, who with the passing of time, has lost her schoolgirl figure and become a stylish stout . . . Note a Hollywood cinema cutie referred to as an "air-cooled blonde." Never heard of that type before. However, most blondes are not unusually sultry. They are vivacious, cheerful and affectionate, like Lana Turner, but generally have their emotions well under control. It is the brunettes who need the air-cooling.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Sea Swallow, your choice for the Kentucky Derby, was an also-ran. Explanations please. A—No excuses offered. He might have done better though on a fast track. But did you notice that Dante, the horse I told some inquiring GIs would win the Epsom Derby came through as predicted. Paid 7 to 2. I hope the boys had a wager on him . . . Q—I asked a man at a hotel cigar stand in New York about a stogie. He said, "a stogie is a cheap cigar." How about this? A—Just the observation of an ignoramus. A stogie and a cigar are two different things. It is true, the stogie sells for a moderate price but is, nevertheless, a fine smoke and the favorite of many discerning smokers . . . Q—What is your opinion of the ruling calling for the midnight closing of bars? A—As far as I am personally concerned it makes no difference. I am a growing boy and usually hit the hay before midnight. However, I don't believe there is much room for complaint as to this ruling. As "Toots" Shor said in commenting upon the matter: ". . . guy that can't get drunk between 7 p. m. and midnight ain't trying."

Distinguished counsel of public relations. He says that while the Stevens Hotel in Chicago has the largest number of rooms in the country, the Waldorf-Astoria has the largest average sized rooms of any of the major hotels. The standing as to the size of individual rooms is, according to Mr. Saucier, 1, Waldorf-Astoria; 2, Pennsylvania Hotel, N. Y. City; 3, Palmer House, Chicago; 4, Stevens, Chicago; 5, Commodore, N. Y. City; 6, New Yorker, N. Y. City.

BRIEFLY: A man of science says the venom of the black widow spider is six times as deadly as that of a cobra and 15 times as deadly as that of a rattlesnake . . . In April, 1909, Gov. Robert S. Vessey of South Dakota proclaimed the second Sunday in May to be Mother's Day. He was therefore the first governor to issue a Mother's Day proclamation. What is the capital of South Dakota? If you can't answer this as quick as a flash, your old geography teacher should be ashamed of you.

PROBLEM: Write down the number 12345679. Now I ask you: What is your favorite number? Six, you say? All right multiply 12345679 by 54 and see what happens. If seven is your favorite number multiply by 63. If you don't want to do this, ask your high school co-ed daughter to try it and give her brain a little exercise.

SAYS SHE: "Speaking domestically," states Dorothy Black, "the average man has been rottenly trained. If he will adjust his point of view and tidy up after himself, a woman can mostly take the rest of the housekeeping in her stride. Too often one man in a house makes more work than a half a dozen children and he expects as much waiting on."

STOGIE DEPARTMENT: My guess was Carl Brisson sang "I Bring a Little White Gardenia" in "Murder in the Vanities." He sang it in the film titled "All the King's Horses." No stogies involved in this. According to the rules of the Stogie Wagering Association, you only pay off when you make a positive statement that proves wrong.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

(Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction Prohibited)

WASHINGTON, June 18—Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, who possesses a broad view, any way you look at her, was making an impassioned speech for repeal of the poll tax the other day. The gentlewoman from California levelled a stern finger at her colleagues and exhorted:

Helen Gahagan Douglas

"I want every one of you to vote for this bill—whether you're for it or against it!"

RECENTLY I WROTE that Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan had been surprised in his hotel suite in San Francisco rehearsing a stirring speech in his B. V. D.'s.

The piece, I have been informed by critics, was slightly on the amusing side. I am not entirely prepared to admit this, but I will agree that it wasn't what you could call ladylike either.

The column, with its vivid description of the dignified Senator in his lingerie, duly appeared in a Midwest paper. But, through some malign circumstances, not under my by-line.

It appeared—so help me!—under this heading:

"My Day. By Eleanor Roosevelt."

I SHUDDER to think what the good burghers of that town are thinking about Mrs. Roosevelt. The very least they must figure is that she temporarily blew her top. The whole thing is so completely un-Mrs. Roosevelt-like I choke every time I read it over.

The opening paragraph alone is enough to shatter Mrs. Roosevelt's readers. It begins:

"Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan is unquestionably the most distinguished-looking gentleman in Congress. He is almost as imposing in his way as the Lincoln Memorial, or even the larger statues in Evalyn Walsh McLean's backyard."

OH, WELL, it could have been worse. It might have been switched around the other way—with bewildered folks reading that Fala had been pleased to see me return home from a speaking engagement in which I delivered an inspiring defense of crocuses.

* * *

JUST RECEIVED a perplexing wire from His Excellency Galo Plaza, Ambassador from Ecuador, who is in San Francisco heading his country's delegation. His Excellency, without preamble or explanation, reports:

"Between the two of us, we are revolutionizing the striped pants brigade."

THE SENATE is forever having trouble keeping the Senators in their seats. Sometimes only a couple are actually on the floor.

When this happens some Senator usually complains there is no quorum and the sergeant-at-arms has to round up the strays. Then a roll call is taken—and business resumes.

However, Sen. Theodore Green of Rhode Island now wails that the roll call is frequently a snare and a delusion. The Congressional Record reports his beef as follows:

"Mr. Green: Suppose there is a roll call, and a Senator whose name begins with A answers present, and then leaves the chamber. By the time the clerk gets down to the Z's, if there are any, there may not be a quorum present, because Senators are not all here at any one time, and it would be necessary to begin over again with the A's."

IT CERTAINLY would get monotonous reading those names over and over and I wouldn't be surprised if the reading clerk went on strike.

Also, for the benefit of Senator Green, there are no Z's in the Senate, although it often seems like it. The roster begins with George D. Aiken of Vermont and ends with George A. Wilson of Iowa.

I AM BEGINNING to wonder whether the Capital Transit Company has hired Archibald MacLeish as its official poet. The company has plastered this poem in its trolley cars:

"Bill McBride
"Speeds his ride
"(And that of many others)
"By using the center exit."

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—Am going to come out and say that after the war Myrna Loy and Navy Capt. Gene Markey will be married. They aren't admitting it now because neither feels this is the right time. But I happen to know it's true and will book any bets.

Meanwhile, it hasn't taken Myrna long to make up her mind what she wants to do as a free lance following her 12-year MGM contract. She's just signed to co-star in "Genius in the Family" for Jack Skirball and Bruce Manning, with Don Ameche as the other half of the team.

Myrna Loy

Amusing to learn this comedy gets Don back to his "inventing" again. He plays Hiram Percy Maxim, the man who invented the machinegun, but who was as fast on the romantic trigger. In fact, it's the romance that will be emphasized without even a workbench or a light bulb near Ameche.

MY GOOD FRIEND, Gene Fowler, has wanted to make a picture out of "Rip Van Winkle" for 10 years. Gene's been so busy writing books he's sort of turned his back on the movies, but now he's got Barry Fitzgerald steamed up over the "Rip Van Winkle" idea and when he finishes the script Barry will be Rip himself. The two boys have set October as the date. Every time we meet, Gene and I reminisce—first about the stories we covered together when we were reporters and later when he was my boss on the New York Journal. The latter wasn't as pleasant as the former, I must admit, because Gene was a tough boss, a better reporter than an editor

IF CHARLIE FREDERICS is half as good looking as five people have told me, well, girls, he is in as a movie actor. He is described as the tall, good looking athletic type and apparently he created a stir for there was a lot of bidding going on for him after he sang here in Victor Herbert's "The Red Mill" recently. If you will pardon my slang, MGM copped the prize and he is at that studio. You will hear his baritone voice and see him in all the musicals originally bought for Nelson Eddy and probably in "The Red Mill," too, because MGM owns it. Ralph Blum of the Feldman-Blum office and Charlie signed on a long-term contract.

LITTLE MARY BROWN, daughter of the Joe E. Browns, who hasn't been able to walk for seven months, will have a surprise for her daddy when he gets home from overseas July 1. She was taken to the hospital Saturday and fitted to a walking brace. Now she will be able to use crutches and in a short time her doctor promises she'll be as well as any girl. I couldn't believe it when Katherine told me Mary is 11. It seems like only yesterday she was coming to Barbara Bebe Lyon's baby parties on my lawn.

AN OPEN LETTER to Louis Sobol, fellow communist on the Hearst newspapers: Dear Louis—Did you know you are going to be a grandfather in December? You don't look old enough but it's true. Your daughter, Mary, who lives here, is going to have a baby and she's telling you through this column. Maj. Ray Splitzer, her husband, certainly has a wonderful war record in the Pacific.

WHEN SOMEONE at Paramount mentioned to John Farrow that Gail Russell was right for "Calcutta," he threw up his hands and said: "She is too indifferent and ill too much." "Just talk to her," begged Henry Ginsberg. So John had a session with Gail. She threw off that amazing indifference that has so worried her studio and sold John a bill of goods on herself. The upshot is Gail will play opposite Alan Ladd and I'm betting Gail will forget her troubles and show the interest which is necessary for good acting.

CLARK GABLE was suspicious when Vic Flemming told him to learn "The Trolley Song." He knew in his heart Vic wanted him to sing and he made up his mind that he wouldn't sing. So the next day Vic said: "Come on, Clark, sing 'The Trolley Song.'" "I don't know the words," said Clark. "Oh, we'll fix that," and the director got a record with Judy Garland and said "now memorize it." I wouldn't tell you all the doors were locked and a guard put there to see to the crime in on the set, just as Mervyn Leroy could.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: May Mann, movie syndicate writer, was to Mrs. Al Lewin any day. Peg and Jerry is a granddaughter. His daughter, Barbara, welcomed a son, Jesse G. Tandy, as taking baby clothes. Her husband is Home Changin' MGM actor Ike Oliver H. P. Garrett's new assistant is Ida Lupino's ex-husband, Louis Hayward. Ann Sothern's first issue is Arthur Hornblow Jr. Jordan Lloyd Sargent Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier have told their agent they are returning to the U. S., but not for a movie. Paul Hesse, noted photographer, and Kathy McDonnell, ingenue in the Chicago company of "Life With Father" will soon tell the world of their matrimonial plans.

ESTHER WILLIAMS, swim cutie, and Sgt. Ben Gage, who were at the no-speaking stage, are talking again, and, oh, so sweetly. They are expected to visit the preacher come September; Marian Walters, talented actress in "The Dream and the Shrew," has been paged by two film scouts: Arthur Rank, British movie mogul, is due to arrive here June 24, and Walter Wanger and Nate Blumberg will give him a cocktail party the 25th at the Beverly Hills Hotel; Buddy De Sylva is improving a little each day; John Payne is threatened with pneumonia; Lt. Jackie Coogan in town on his way to Fresno, having a grand time with Helen Forrest at Slapsy Maxie's.

NEW YORK, June 18—Wall Streeters believe the Government spokesmen have underestimated the extent of the coming cutbacks. Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, June 18—This Hollywood is my beat, and when I patrol it, I often go for a walk along Hollywood blvd. I have seen this street change and, surprisingly enough, I have seen it change almost in the same manner that I saw Broadway change. I recall that I once said, "Broadway is becoming like Coney Island, only without the sand." I can say the same thing now about Hollywood blvd., for it has become more of a carnival thoroughfare, especially after dark. The street is crowded with servicemen and girls and war workers. You almost have to push and fight your way along the street. Which is dotted with chap-praced drinking emporiums, concessions, gift shops, half-priced anything stores.

It's a great place to walk when possible, this Hollywood blvd., which is now a combination of the familiar landmarks the Hollywood Hotel, Grauman's Chinese—and the mushroom shops that are now part of the carnival. The soldiers and sailors, when they are with gals, always stop in the forecourt of Grauman's Chinese Theater. And I'd like to have a dollar for every serviceman who steps into Gary Cooper's footprints and says to the girl friend, "I told you I could fill Gary Cooper's shoes."

OF COURSE AN important part of the Hollywood beat is the motion picture studios, and we will wander around them. A group of extras have just come off the set and are on their way to the commissary. It doesn't matter what set. It could be "This Strange Adventure," "The Stork Club" or "They Call It Love." It doesn't matter, for you'd be surprised how many extras don't take the trouble to learn the name of the picture they're working in.

It is also amusing how various people in the different branches of picture making refer to and look upon a motion picture. Take "The Clock." I have had an actor say to me, "I'm going to see the Judy Garland-Robert Walker picture," while writers have said to me, "I'm going to see the Paul Gallico picture." And, of course, there are the directors and cameramen who claim it as their own.

WHILE WE ARE covering the Hollywood beat we must drop in at any of those restaurants along Sunset blvd., where the extras, the stock players, the aircraft workers and servicemen, who are interested in food, drink and swing music gather.

The boys and girls sit here by the hour, leaving each other's company only to get up and put a nickel or a dime in the juke box or to go to the phone. I love my beat

Boston After Dark

COMES SUMMER and the weatherman's weak but courageous prophecy of seasonable weather at last, and suddenly Boston's entertainment takes a spurt that lands Our Fair City squarely in the spotlight as Hollywood's beachhead in the East . . . It's in line with a most unpredictable recent history which saw Hoop Jr., and Morton Cooper go down to defeat in successive days, and an east wind dissolve into a thundershower of cloudburst proportions to be followed by the dawn of today with low humidity and sunny skies!

BRINGING US deviously—to a picture-play entitled "Back to Bataan" . . . RKO produced it as the latest in a sequence of timely and topical stories which began with a minor masterpiece called "Hitler's Children."

WITH AN INITIATION at the Boston Garden next Sunday night of an "in the flesh" show featuring Eddie Cantor, John Wayne, Ellen Drew, Benny Goodman, Jesse L. Lasky, and all the best entertainers in Boston, "Back to Bataan" will open a week from today at the RKO-Memorial Theater . . . The film belongs on everybody's must-see list . . . It's inspirational, intriguing and semi-historic.

"BACK TO BATAAN" has entertainment throughout . . . Its Boston showing has something else . . . It will help the Hearst newspapers of Boston establish a downtown center for servicemen's wives and mothers, a community need long felt and about to be filled . . . John Wayne, at his very best, plays the role of Col. Madden, the United States officer who is a composite of two real-life military heroes.

THE FILM character played by the appealing Wayne, organizes and leads guerilla resistance in the Philippines.

THE HOLLYWOOD star makes the role live . . . You won't forget his steely eyes peering through a jungle thicket at the side of a road as he watches his former comrades of Bataan on that terrible "Death March" into Japanese captivity

AS THE WHOLE TOWN knows by now, "Back to Bataan" will be introduced by a show at the Garden that has sock appeal . . . The great Eddie Cantor will serve as master of ceremonies . . . John Wayne will salute his horde of admirers in person . . . Ellen Drew will be present . . . Heroes of the "Death March" (some of whom sat alongside of us in the RKO projection room Sunday afternoon) will grin at a cheering audience from the Garden's stage . . . The Latin Quarter, the Mayfair, the Bradford Roof, the Music Box, Steuben's Vienna Room all will send their best acts to augment the show . . . And Benny (King of Swing) Goodman, who will be playing at the Keith-Boston, will lead his great band through its famous riffs at one stage of the proceedings

MR. CANTOR IS SQUIRING his entire radio show to the Garden's benefit show . . . Boston will be hearing Nora Martin in person for the first time . . . Fred Martel, the Cantor vocalist; Leonard Sues, the great trumpet player, and Bea Walker will be on hand . . . Late Hollywood advices assure us that Anthony Quinn, who enacts the Filipino comrade to Mr. Wayne's U. S. colonel in "Back to Bataan", and Ducky Louis, the boy-hero of the film, will be at the Garden Sunday night.

THE GREAT show will be priced moderately—very moderately . . . As was the epic entertainment, under similar auspices which starred Bob Hope in the same Garden to make entertainment history in Boston a few months ago

Start Bond Sale Tabulation Today

Tabulation of bond sales to business firms, hospitals, colleges, insurance companies and other organizations begins today in the Seventh War Loan drive, with $86,300,000 as the Massachusetts quota, it was announced by the War Finance Committee.

Over the week-end, the committee also announced, sales of E bonds in the Commonwealth through June 15 have totaled $77,200,000 which is 53.1 per cent of the $140,000,000 quota. Sales to individuals for the same period were $180,100,000, or 73.6 per cent of the $238,000,000 quota.

In Greater Boston, E bond volume to the June 15 period was $45,780,000, or 51.4 per cent of the $89,100,000 objective. Sales to individuals in this area were $124,332,000, or 82.4 per cent of the $150,901,000 quota.

Tabulation of E bonds, through special payroll deduction provision, applies on the Seventh War Loan until July 7.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE! Satin and net combine to make a wedding gown of great elegance with the off-the-shoulder neckline filled in with marquisette. Canhamiana orchids . . . white with deep purple centers are worked in a graceful curving spray for the wedding bouquet . . . And the jewels are diamonds and rubies set in platinum . . . or don't you care? The Pandora "I do" gown is headgear . . . harkening fashdramatized with the usual ion's call for off-the-head prominence.—R. M.

Include Zone No.

We are urged, for the greater convenience of the Postoffice Department, always to include the city. And, to make the number stand out most distinctly, it's best to write the name of the city (with Zone Number) on a separate line, the name of the state on the line below. Just write the Zone Number after the name of the city . . . no comma after the city or after the Zone Number.

Complexion Milk Grand Shield for Skin

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

A FEW DAYS AGO we received a letter from a sailor stationed somewhere in the wilds of the hinterlands . . . where war is still a living, breathing, nerve-wracking obsession with American lads to get it over and done with . . . and be on their way back home for pleasurable pursuits with those they left behind.

Although it speaks for itself . . . we have a commentary to make. This Navy lad writes:

"In the June 7 edition of your paper you show a photograph of Arleen Whelan. I'm afraid the name of your new kind of cream mask doesn't particularly interest me, but I assure you the picture of Miss Whelan does.

"Would it be possible to send me the glossy of the picture? In fact, any pictures like that one. At present, I'm at a place where women are just a name, and pictures like that are much in demand, in order that we might remember just what the girls look like back in the States. Honestly, anything you can do to interest us, like Miss Whelan, will be more than appreciated."

You see, the lad didn't waste much time in dispatching his request for the glossy of a lovely to feast on . . . and to sail as a constant reminder that American girls are still lovely to look at, delightful to see. We're amused at his plight . . . sent him the glossy . . . and hope it kindles the fires for the day when he'll get back to this country for renewal of acquaintance with the girls he left behind.

We published this letter . . . one of many that come across our desk . . . because we want to impress it upon American girls how important keeping . . . not only to them . . . but to that boy in the service . . . who has placed the American girl on a pedestal and who hopes . . . upon his return . . . she is every bit better than his dreams which, perhaps, are getting better all the time.

WILL SHIELD YOUR SKIN

All of which brings me to the thought that come summer . . . all of us can't be the dazzling, sunkissed beauties we'd like to be. We're thinking right now of those gals with thin, sensitive, sun-shy complexions that repeatedly burn, blister, and freckle in the summer sun . . . but never tan. If this is your summertime predicament . . . you ought to avoid the sun as much as possible . . . but when you're at the beach, playing tennis . . . or just day-dreaming in a hammock . . . please protect that fragile beauty with a generous coating of a complexion milk . . . that will screen and shield your skin from the drying, ravaging effects of sun and wind.

Being rich in nourishing oils . . . and other precious ingredients . . . this milky white, creamy lotion adds new moisture, new elasticity to a dry flaky skin the minute it goes on . . . leaving your face with an all-over smoothness of a dimple-kneed cherub. Don't let blistering, dry days rob your delicate skin of its dewy texture . . . and keep faith with your own loveliness for the sake of that boy who has yet to see you.

For the name of this complexion milk, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FIGURATIVELY and facially speaking . . . Ruth Valmy, a Goldwyn girl, has a clinching hold on feminine perfection . . . and could easily be the dream-girl of the sailor whose touching letter we print today. Don't let summer sun run riot with your complexion . . . drying, coarsening and flaking what should be dewy softness. An unusual complexion milk can challenge the sun's ravages efficaciously.

Choice Cold Platters

By MARTHA LEE

WHEN YOU SERVE COLD MEATS, do you just lay them out in hit-or-miss fashion on any plate that's handy? Or do you get out a very special platter or tray, and call into action all the artistic ingenuity you possess?

When you plan your menu, you undoubtedly plan it so as to have a well-balanced meal and one that will, with other meals of the day, meet the family's needs for good nutrition. You also think of foods which taste good together. Why not plan the meal with appearance in mind also?

VARIETY WITH COLD MEATS

It's usual, when serving cold meat, to have a variety of different kinds on the platter, although this is not essential. By using ready-to-eat meats from the market, canned meats and any leftover cooked meat you may have on hand (such as roast, pot roast, ham or meat loaf) there is plenty of variety to be had. The cold cuts include "boiled" ham, pressed ham, meat loaf, bologna, salami, liver sausage and a number of others from which to make a selection.

MENU
Cream of Mushroom Soup
Crisp Crackers
Assorted Cold Meats
Potato Salad
Hot Whole Wheat Muffins
Butter or Margarine
Preserves
Fresh Fruit Cup
Macaroons
Coffee or Iced Tea

Besides the usual garnishes—such as parsley, watercress, radish roses and pickle fans—other cold foods which are on the menu may be arranged on the platter with the meat. Crisp vegetables just brought in from the garden are a "natural" to go with sliced meats. Salads are appropriate; occasionally, these may be molded in gelatin.

Hard-cooked eggs, if available, go well with cold cuts, and may be served in different ways. Chilled fruits, either plain or pickled, are both pretty and delicious. You may also use cottage cheese or other cheeses, cold sandwiches, crackers and potato chips.

SOME GOOD IDEAS

Just to start you off, here are a few suggested combinations that make attractive cold platters. You'll find the foods taste "right" together, too. You may add more different kinds of meat if desired.

1—Cold sliced meat loaf (commercial or homemade), potato chips, raw carrot sticks, celery stuffed with peanut butter and mayonnaise, prunes stewed with whole spices and chilled. Serve chili sauce or ketchup to go with the meat loaf.

2—Slices of bologna and salami sausage, potato salad in green pepper cases, pickled onions, rye bread sandwiches.

3—Slices of liver sausage, whole tomatoes filled with coleslaw, crackers with thin slices of American cheese, pickles in tiny lettuce leaves.

4—Cold sliced tongue, raw spinach salad in bowl in center, deviled eggs, olives.

5—Slices of cold roast beef and spiced ham, individual molds of tomato aspic on lettuce, raw carrots and green onions.

CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP

½ lb. mushrooms, or stems from ½ lb. mushrooms
5 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 medium-sized onion, sliced
3 tbsp. flour 1½ tsp. salt
Dash of cayenne
½ tsp. pepper 4 cups milk

Scrub mushrooms and chop fine. Melt butter, add mushrooms and onion, and cook over low heat until onion is yellow. Remove onion, if desired. Stir in flour and seasonings, and when well blended, add milk slowly, stirring constantly over low heat until mixture boils. Add more salt and pepper if necessary. Makes 6 servings.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, SUNDAY—For our future security, perhaps the first and most important thing we should think of is our obligation to see that every man able to work has a job, that every American family has a decent level of subsistence, and that every child has a chance to grow up without the physical and mental handicaps which arise out of bad housing, bad health and poor education and recreational conditions.

Our fighting men have found that this is the best country in the world. Yet during the depression years there were many people, even youngsters, to whom that would have seemed an impossible statement.

We know that the things we want can only be secured if the other nations of the world have a rising standard of living and continuous desires which make the flow of trade more or less equal throughout the world.

A NATION with a high standard of living is a nation with a high national income. This will enable us to spend all we need on our defense without hardship to our people, and provide a Navy which our experts will consider adequate for protection and which shall only be reduced as armaments throughout the world are reduced; an air force which shall be reduced only as the rest of the world reduces its military equipment proportionately; and a research group that will at all times be abreast of every modern invention.

If we do decide that compulsory military training is essential until our peace organization is functioning, then we must be very careful how we choose and allocate our young people to their various tasks.

In addition, we must repay them—on their release from military service—by giving them training in their chosen fields which will make it possible to accelerate their entrance into productive life as civilians.

We want to feel secure in a world where as yet force is the major weapon, but we also want to feel secure in a world where perhaps mental and spiritual force may grow to be the greatest force.

Girlish Tone to Swim Suits

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE people who decide our coastwise fashions don't care very much what you wear into the water so long as it's very feminine. To this end they have used every trick in the designing bag to give swim suits a girlish tone. I have told you about this before, and I repeat that the most important swim suit styles are sweet and soft looking.

Chief of the devices for making suits like this are shirring and frills, and you may find both in one suit. Such a model, to illustrate the trend, is sketched by Miss Dulin. Made of multicolored plaid taffeta, this swim suit has a softly shirred bra top with a halter strap. Below the inevitable bare midriff is a very short wrap-around skirt, bordered by a perky frill of the taffeta. A pair of jersey culottes are worn under the skirt.

Keen Racing Competition Thrills Suffolk Fans

By JACK CONWAY

THE TYPE OF racing offered at Eastern tracks continues to improve as was so evident by the great enthusiasm shown by the big crowds that witnessed Side Boy win at Suffolk Downs, Devil Diver triumph at Belmont and Polynesian finish first in the Preakness at Pimlico on Saturday. There were 25,931 persons at the East Boston track, and it is seldom that such a large gathering has been as pleased with a racing offering.

Mrs. Weston W. Adams' Side Boy convinced racegoers he is one of the best stretch runners in racing. He duplicated his recent victory at Narragansett Park when he came from behind to win. Trainer George Alexandra has the Adams stable in fine condition, and he expects to win many more races before the 54-day Suffolk Downs meeting closes. Alexandra had his horses training six weeks before the New England racing season which is one of the reasons why they have looked so well under hard competition.

Allan Wilson

Jockey Harry Pratt was obliged to use all of his skill to get Side Boy home in front of Valdina Craft who had George Seabo as jockey. Valdina Craft had amazing early speed, but once the far turn of the one mile Bunker Hill Handicap was reached Side Boy began to close in on the leader.

Side Boy is one of the best stretch runners in racing and came on to win as the big crowd roared its appreciation.

There was also a thrilling finish in the Ft. Banks when Dinner Party just got up to gain a dead heat for first place with Chain Miss. It was necessary for Dinner Party to run around horses on the turn and in this way he lost considerable ground. Once Dinner Party got straightened out for home he proved he is one of the best finishers in racing. Dinner Party only got up even with Chain Miss in the last jump.

Bargain Horse

TRAINER E. E. Miles told me that H. T. Darling's West Fleet, who won the Boston, a $3500 purse event, was purchased for $500 a year ago last January. Darling operates a club outside of Brockton and he has always had a keen interest in racing.

"It isn't always that one is fortunate enough to have a $500 horse develop so that he can beat $3500 thoroughbreds," Miles told me. "I took over the training of West Fleet last fall and the horse has scored his share of victories. He won two races at Rockingham Park at attractive prices. This year he has won at Narragansett Park and at Suffolk Downs.

"Harry Darling has been a fine man for whom to train. He does not interfere with my training program, and we have been fortunate in getting excellent results. West Fleet has speed, while he also closes with plenty of power."

Jockey Balzaretti was up on West Fleet. Balzaretti is one of the better jockeys now riding in New England. Johnny, Jr. tried hard to overcome West Fleet in the stretch drive, but he was unable to do so.

There has been a high percentage of favorites and second choices winning at Suffolk Downs. Allan Wilson and Eddie Goode have received the congratulations of hundreds of racegoers for the splendid racing during the first week of the Suffolk Downs meeting.

WILSON AND Goode place good racing ahead of increased attendance and soaring mutuel handles.

"A race track's success depends upon the calibre of its racing," said Allan Wilson. "We shall continue to try to give the public racing that will furnish keen competition. I am enough of a horseman to enjoy seeing a fine field of thoroughbreds battling through the stretch better than anything else."

Financially the opening week of the Suffolk Downs meeting was very successful. The handle for the first week was $5,900,826 for a daily average of $978,471 as compared with last year's first week's handle of $5,194,689.

Barrett Lifts Sox Hopes

By HUCK FINNEGAN

EN ROUTE TO BOSTON, June 18—Joe Cronin was happy today, for not only had his Red Sox, normally a ball club for whom the road meant trouble, concluded a short Eastern jaunt above .500, but Francis "Red" Barrett, the Knight of the Bull Pen, had recaptured pitching skill important to the team's sucess.

Make no mistake about it, the redhead who prefers to come in to save another guy's game again has the ability to silence the enemy's bats.

For a stretch there, something was wrong. Cronin knew it. So did the Sox. Red Barrett couldn't put out the fire, couldn't check New York or Philadelphia, and that meant, with the Columbus American Ass'n graduate no longer a puzzle, Mike Ryba would have to forego starting assignments and stay out there in the bull pen.

Someone had to do a job, for no major league club ever achieved success without a Johnny Murphy, a Jim Turner, a Mace Brown or a Gordon Maltzberger, acclaimed relief pitchers, able to step in when a regular faltered.

But Red Barrett was ill, though neither his manager nor teammates knew it. Only Trainer Win Green was aware that the slim right hander was below par physically. Barrett isn't the kind to make mountains out of physical molehills.

Then the Red Sox pulled into Washington, last stop on the tour of the Eastern American League ports of call, needing to take the series to pull over the .500 mark on the trip. And they won three out of four, with a tie thrown in, and one of the victories and stalemate were achieved because Red Barrett was right again.

In the 13-inning game Friday he allowed only one hit, no runs in four innings, and then in Sunday's afterpiece of a doubleheader, when Jim Wison retired suffering with the heat that didn't bother the Red Sox or cool their bats, Barrett yielded only two hits and a futile run in four innings, protecting Wilson's game and enabling the Sox to go home in sole possession of third place, a full game ahead of the defending champion Browns.

The scores of the Sox' double victory were 2 to 1 and 7 to 1, and it's a puzzle as to who paid who in a friendly bet made between Emmett O'Neill and Wilson, Sunday's starters, who wagered that the other would issue more bases on balls.

O'Neill gave up six in his victory, then returned to the press box, grinning that he allowed as how he would win that dinner bet from Wilson. But Jim gave up four walks in the five innings, before heat got him.

Who won the wager?

Cronin, after mulling over the pitching assignments for the visit of the Yankees, always a team the Sox are eager to beat, announced that Dave Ferriss, who went 14 innings to beat Washington Friday, would not hurl the twilight game Tuesday night against New York . . . Ferriss will go in Wednesday's doubleheader, then again next Sunday . . . Clem Hausmann will face the Yanks first, the manager said.

HE'S TOPS—Tommy Holmes, left, Braves outfielder leading both major leagues at bat with .385, is shown with Coach Del Bissonette as they compare extra hard wood 17-year-old bats with a more recent model (center). Bissonette dug the old clubs out of his attic for Holmes' use. Since then Tommy has hit safely in 11 consecutive games. Associated Press Photo

Braves Pep Up for Eisenhower Show

By FRED HOEY

The Braves had better put on their best. Not only their top baseball ability but their clean uniforms, etc. For tomorrow they appear before the world's outstanding general, Ike Eisenhower, at the Polo Grounds in a game against the New York Giants.

The famous "Ike" expressed, as one of his first desires, a chance to see major league baseball This Braves-Giants game is right down his alley. The Boston club is only 4½ games off the pace and an even three games behind the Ottmen.

Just who will pitch for the Braves in this memorable occasion even Bob Coleman the manager doesn't know. His pitching staff has been so ruffled over the last three days that a starting hurler of merit is hard to find. But resourceful Bob can throw them in, here and there, with the hope that the Giants can be licked.

The Braves this afternoon met the Submarine Base team in New London, Ct. "Whitey" Wietleman was to pitch for the Braves. Directly after the New London game the Braves entrain for New York to await their opening with the Giants on Tuesday.

The Boston team plays a night game with the Giants on Wednesday and on Thursday rests. Two night games and a doubleheader is the Braves' menu for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Cards, Yanks Nearing League Peaks

By LES CONKLIN

Brooklyn was on top in the torrid National League scramble today as a result of beating Boston while the Pirates and Giants were losing both games of their doubleheaders. In trouncing the Braves 9 to 6 the Dodgers handed Mort Cooper his first defeat of the year. The second game between the Dodgers and Braves was suspended in the eighth inning with the Braves leading 4 to 1. This contest will not be completed until August. Meanwhile the Dodgers are a full game ahead of the Giants and Pirates, who are tied for second place.

Most significant development was the rush of the Cardinals. The world champions advanced to within a game and a half of first place by downing the Pirates twice, 7 to 0 and 6 to 2.

The Giants hit a new low in losing both ends of a twin bill to the tail-end Phillies, 11 to 9 and 6 to 2. Bill Voiselle, the Giants' big 1944 freshman winner, was knocked out of the box in the fifth inning of the nightcap. After winning his first eight games this year, Big Bill now has failed his mates eight straight times

Ed Heusser of Cincinnati had the Cubs eating out of his hand until the ninth inning, when the Bruins jumped on him for three runs, knocked him off the mound and won, 3 to 1. The second game was washed out.

Doings of the pennant contenders in the American League were overshadowed by Russ Christopher, Athletics pitcher. Russ turned in his 11th victory in beating the Yankees 4 to 2 in the second game of a double-header. He has won more games than any other hurler in the big show and has turned in more than half of the total victories racked up by the tailend Athletics.

The Yanks took the first game of the twin bill, 7 to 1. They now are only a game and a half behind the Detroit Tigers, who were knocked over twice by the Chicago White Sox, 6 to 1 and 7 to 5.

The sprightly Red Sox advanced to within two games of first place by bowling over Washington twice, 2 to 1 and 7 to 1.

Both scheduled games between Cleveland and the Browns were rained out.

JOHN WARNER
Says
"It's the Only Head of Hair You Have"

Your head of hair has to last all your life, and once gone it is lost forever. We will not and never have accepted anyone for treatment who had lost their hair. Dandruff scales, dull and dingy hair or excessive falling hair can be the signs of poor scalp hygiene. Over a period of years, thousands of men and women have placed their hair problems in our hands. Proper care of your hair and scalp may pay real dividends several years from now.

We suggest that you ask any man or woman who has been a client of ours about the Warner method of hair and scalp control.

A consultation at any of our offices is always without charge or obligation. We will give you our opinion as to whether we feel that we can help you. The treatments which you may elect to take are paid for as you take them. Why not drop in today, it may pay you dividends in the future.
